Agitech's Enterprise Application Services are designed to improve automation and productivity. We combine an integrated solutions approach, experienced project teams, offshore delivery, and strong technology practices in our solutions. Our model incorporates all the critical business information that an organization needs to develop effective sales, marketing, Supply HR and customer service strategies. Recognizing that most of the companies seldom have the luxury of unlimited information technology resources, Agitech's team can implement solutions that are both easy to implement and manage. Agitech designs its solutions to be flexible so that clients can customize them to meet their unique business goals. We know that companies are constantly evolving, which is why our services can accommodate organizations that are growing. We work with the following technologies:

- Ariba i2
- JD Edwards
